

OLD DOG BOOKS

Welcome to Old Dog Books...
A New Publishing Platform!
You can teach an Old Dog new tricks.

Us folk at Old Dog Books have come together with a mission; to recreate the excitement of the Pulp Fiction novels that so many of us grew up with. Richard Allen's Skinhead books were as much a part of our childhood as Blakey's Segs, Chopper bikes, Bazooka Joe gum and Slade!

The bulk of the books we are releasing are all new short stories based around the lives and times of teenagers growing up in a Britain of a bygone era. These are the untold stories of the kids who chose to be different. To join tribes. To experiment with fashion, music, drink, drugs, violence and alienation from society.

Our aim is to bring out a series of books that reflect these times - 6 per year in 2 batches. Not only do we want them to be read by the 40 to 50 year olds, who were there first time around, but also their kids and grand-kids. We want the books in Schools and Libraries. We want the teenagers of today enjoying the books and going out and forming tribes of their own.

We hope to make Joe Hawkins proud of us.
